New passenger aircraft An-24 was designed by Antonov's Experimental Construction Bureau in 1959. During 1967-1971, 164 aircraft of this type were built in Irkutsk. In 1964 the designers presented the project of the new modification (An-26) that differed from the previous one with new construction of the nose and tail end. The mass production started in 1970 at Kiev aviation plant. In total 1398 aircraft of this type were built: 564 pcs were used in defense departments of USSR, 420 pcs were exported.

The model is executed on technology short run and is intended only for experienced modelers.
